Only BNP councillors will put

Pensioners

Before

Asylum Seekers

COUNCILS ACROSS BRITAIN are being forced to close their care homes because the Labour Government is refusing to provide the necessary funds for the homes to be upgraded to meet new regulations.

After a LIFETIME of service to the country, of working and paying taxes, our old folk are being EVICTED from their homes at a time when they most need support from the state.

But Tony Blair and New Labour don't give a damn.

Tony Blair can find an extra £1.8 billion to look after the 110,000 economic migrants and their dependants who claimed asylum in Britain last year. But he can't find the funds to look after our old folk.

Asylum seekers, without having paid a penny in National Insurance contributions, travel halfway across the world to avail themselves of the services and benefits that the British state provides. BNP councillors are pledged to end this scandal. In areas where we are elected we will refuse to allow asylum seekers to place this unbearable strain on the local economy. Our education, health and welfare services just cannot cope with such an influx of additional people to look after. Someone is left to suffer because of this extra burden placed on our society, and in most cases it's our pensioners - the most deserving and yet most vulnerable people in Britain today.

The BNP will put the needs of our pensioners before those of asylum seekers. We will ensure that funds for our care homes take priority over funds for accommodation for people who are coming to our country just because they see it as a 'soft touch'.

On May 1st, you will have the opportunity to vote for the candidates who are pledged to put the welfare of the British people FIRST!

No wonder they come to Britain!

THE REVISED Tenancy Agreement between the Home Office and Landlords providing accommodation for asylum seekers, shows just why economic migrants are so desperate to come to Britain. The 26-page Agreement reveals just how much these new arrivals are mollycoddled at our expense. They are provided with free gas, free electricity and free water, as well as having their council tax and even telephone bill paid for them. They get a new cooker, new television and new fridge freezer with free insurance to cover any damage or theft. No wonder Labour, the Lib-Dems and the Tories have conspired to keep this covered up since 2001. Read the full story - www.bnp.org.uk.

Dirty oven? Then we'll buy you a new one!

ASYLUM seeker, Anwar Chaudhry was far from happy with the house provided for him in Wilford Grove, Nottingham.

The former journalist with the Muslim and Pakistan Observer, who spent £37,000 fleeing from Pakistan with his wife, Kulsoom, and five children, was expecting accommodation of a much higher standard than he was offered.

Mr Chaudhry told the Nottinghamshire Post that the four-bedroom terraced house was dirty and shabby and that the oven hadn't been cleaned.

21st Century Estate Agents, who provided the accommodation, were disappointed that their new tenant wasn't pleased with his house. A spokesman explained:

"The house used to be occupied by a Czech family with 11 children. Everything that could have been cleaned with industrial cleaner was washed. There was new bedding and a new settee.

"We cleaned the whole house but the oven was overlooked. Mr Chaudhry should have come to us and we would have cleaned it or replaced it."

Free cars for asylum seekers

IN FEBRUARY'S Freedom we reported the story of David Rowley and his wife from Stoke, who sold their car for £1,500 to an asylum seeker and were paid with a cheque from the DSS.

Mr Rowley told his local paper: "I rang the DSS to see if we could have some money for a car - you can guess the answer. Will somebody out there please explain to me why we never have any money for nurses, fireman or schools, but we can conjure up all this money for free cars for asylum seekers?"

Well David Rowley's revelations pale into insignificance compared to those of Mike Gimson, the vice-chairman of the Birmingham Care Consortium. His care home in the city was visited by their regular GP. Her daughter had put a car on the market for £12,000. Three 'asylum seekers' accepted the price and returned a few hours later to pick up the car - with a cheque for £12,000 made out to the vendor by Birmingham Social Services!

Another Lotto jackpot

THE COMMUNITY Fund, which gave a £340,000 grant to a group fighting deportations last year, has handed out another £800,000 of lottery money to asylum seekers.

Charity Asylum Aid is to get £200,000, while an asylum seeker drop-in centre in Norfolk has been handed a whopping cash bonanza of £290,000.

Blame it on racism!

Media and minorities find their scapegoat

GLYN DARKIN:
Knifed 25 times and then branded a racist.

IS IT ANY wonder that the British people are so guilt-ridden over our ethnic identity? On an almost daily basis we are vilified for our ignorance over multi-cultural matters and our inherent racism.

The laws of our land deny the British people from expressing a personal preference in ethnic matters, whether it be in the workplace, where we live and our children go to school, or even in our private life.

Anti-racist organisations, aided and abetted by the media, have been able to stand logic on its head in matters of race and make the British people an all too easy scapegoat, ripe for exploitation.

When Clinton Noel mugged Glyn Darkin in Grosvenor Avenue in Islington, North London, for his mobile phone, he stabbed him 25 times - an assault which left his victim in a coma for four days. At Kingston Crown Court Clinton Noel claimed he had been racially abused in a cynical attempt to claim mitigating circumstances and a reduced sentence.

Mr Darkin told the Evening Standard of his ordeal and how he was branded a racist in court.

"I found it very disturbing some of the things they tried to imply. It was a real eye-opener to see the criminal justice system at work."

Residents of the small Welsh town of Burry Port, near Llanelli, were guilt-ridden when racists burnt down Malkit Chand's corner shop in December 2001.

Mrs Chand claimed she was a victim of racism and police found slogans daubed at the back of the Hill Top Stores, and a swastika painted on a nearby wall.

For 14 months Burry Port lived with its guilt, until it was exposed at Cardiff Crown Court last month that Mrs Chand had painted the slogans herself before setting fire to the shop in an effort to defraud her insurance company.

Firefighters attending the blaze found a petrol drum with a wick attached surrounded by children's soft toys. Both the front and back doors of the property were still locked and intact, and no entrance had been available for anyone to gain entry.

On 6th March Daily Telegraph readers were riddled with guilt after reading the report, 'Driver

Driver killed in 'race attack'

An Asian delivery driver was stabbed to death yesterday on a garage forecourt in north-west London by a middle-aged white man in what may have been a racial murder.

Qamar Mirza, 48, was attacked with a large kitchen knife as he cleaned his windscreen at a Jet garage in Cricklewood Broadway.

until the Evening Standard put the record straight 24 hours later

Suspect in knife attacks is held over garage murder

A MAN who allegedly went on a knife rampage in Cricklewood yesterday attacking three people, has now been arrested for the murder of Qamar Mirza, 48, left, at a nearby garage the previous night. The 33-year-old is an Albanian national.

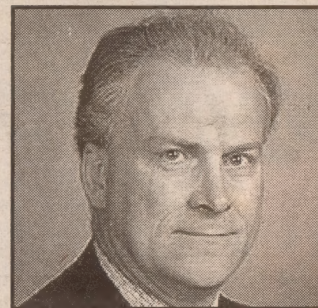

killed in race attack'. An Asian delivery driver was stabbed to death by a 'white' man in what the paper thought 'may have been a racial murder'.

Twenty-four hours later the Evening Standard reported that the police had arrested a 33 year-old Albanian national for this murder, as well as three other attacks in the area.

Any chance of the Daily Telegraph printing an apology to the indigenous population to ease their consciences? Not on your life.

It is vital that anti-racists and their friends in the media keep white Britons downtrodden and apologetic for their racial identity in order that the ethnic minority colonisation of our country can continue apace.

Two weeks 'suspended' for £90,000 'mistake'

MICHAEL TREND: MA (Oxon) and leader witer for the Daily Telegraph.

IT'S HARD to believe that someone educated at Westminster and Oriel College, Oxford could be 'naive'.

It's even harder to believe that someone who had been chief leader writer of the Daily Telegraph for two years could be 'muddled'.

But it is impossible to believe that someone who has been an MP for ten years, served as a parliamentary private secretary and been a vice-chairman of the Conservative Party could have 'misunderstood' his MP's expense allowance.

Yet this is what the Commons Standards and Privileges Committee accepts happened in the case of Tory MP for Windsor, Michael Trend. This Tory spiv claimed £90,000 in London housing allowance which he wasn't entitled to.

Trend was suspended from Parliament for two weeks and told to pay back the money he improperly claimed. In the outside world, Michael Trend would probably join the long line of 'distinguished' Tory MP's who've gone to prison for gaining money by deception.

Lib-Dem leader on sex offenders' register for life

CHADWICK: Changed plea.

THE LEADER of the Liberal Democrats in Preston, William Chadwick, pleaded guilty at Liverpool Crown Court last month to 18 offences of making indecent photographs of children.

Experts found that Chadwick's hard drive had been used to access pornographic internet sites by putting in a search requests such as "underground illegal pornography". The 48-year-old originally pleaded not guilty after claiming he accidentally stumbled across the websites, but changed his plea to guilty as the evidence stacked up against him.

Chadwick was fined £1,000 and ordered to sign the sex offenders' register for life.

Thoughts on Immigration

- * The British people were never given the chance to vote on whether they wanted Britain to become a 'multicultural' society.
- * The British National Party is opposed to 'multiculturalism' because it fragments society and generates conflict.
- * The British National Party seeks to protect and preserve the ethnic and cultural integrity of the British people.
- * Labour and Conservative Governments, for the past fifty-five years, have allowed large scale immigration into Britain from the Third World against the clear wishes of the British people.
- * Now leading population experts predict that the native British people will be a minority in our own country within 60 years.
- * The British National Party will end immigration and the settlement of asylum seekers in Britain.
- * The British National Party will encourage immigrants to return to their country of ethnic origin by providing generous financial incentives to help those who want to return home.

Labour makes its intentions clear

NEW LABOUR has made its priorities very clear for this May's local council elections. They will be trying to hang on to their power in Britain's town halls by courting the ethnic vote.

Labour's election website's pictorial logo is of eight people - five of them are from ethnic minority groups. They are very prominent at the front of the photo while just three ordinary Britons are at the back, struggling to be seen. The logo typifies New Labour's thinking. They believe the new arrivals in Britain are their natural members, supporters and voters for the future and that every effort must be made to bring them into the Labour fold.

Funding in every Labour-controlled town hall favours minorities. Every Labour council is signed up to the positive discrimination code of practice, which effectively puts the needs of any minority group before those of the indigenous population.

New Labour has nothing to offer its traditional British base of support. In fact, time and time again, they have stabbed their voters in the back, taking their loyalty for granted and then riding rough-shod all over their hopes and aspirations.

In the Lancashire town of Burnley last May voters turned away from Labour in their thousands and elected three BNP councillors. On May 1st 2003 voters will be turning away from Labour in their scores of thousands across the whole of Britain, giving the BNP for the first time a real voice for the British people.

BURNLEY: The local Labour council has ignored white wards like Burnley Wood (left). Between 1996 and 2001 it spent £8.9 million on housing in the predominantly Pakistani Daneshouse ward (right), directing 62% of all housing funding to just 6% of the population.

Creating an underclass in Tony Blair's Britain

A LEADING British social scientist has launched a scathing attack on New Labour for putting immigrants and asylum seekers before the British people.

In his new book, Minorities in the Open Society, Middlesex University lecturer and respected author, Geoff Dench, reports: "Since the return to power of Labour, people have felt as though the rights of immigrants and of potential immigrants (who have yet to enter the [social] system or even to think about doing so) are given greater weight than those of families who have been here for generations."

Geoff Dench goes on to warn that the white working class may now be "slipping fast into a white underclass".

"Many people in Britain feel that there is a madness running through much of our social policy at the moment, which revolves around the place of minorities. They are still consistently picked out for official help in climbing the ladder."

Dench concludes that white working-class parents feel it is their children who are paying the price for the advancement of the ethnic minorities in Britain.

"Since the return to power of Labour, people have felt as though the rights of immigrants are given greater weight than those of families who have been here for generations."

David Blunkett speaks with 'forked tongue'

HOME SECRETARY, David Blunkett, is becoming an expert at trimming his message to suit his audience.

When speaking to ordinary people he's Labour's 'tough man on asylum', but at a meeting with religious leaders last month, it was a very different message - talking up the qualities of asylum seekers while slamming the 'prejudice' of the British people.

Blunkett was trumpeting Labour's new policy of cutting 200,000 asylum seekers at a stroke by making them work-seeking migrants. It's astonishing that he can believe that by simply re-naming illegal immigrants he can pull the wool over the eyes of British people.

Don't worry about those double yellow lines

FOR THE last three months Luton's Labour Council have allowed worshippers at the town's Central Mosque to ignore parking restrictions. With as many as 2,000 turning up to Friday prayers, the council decided to issue a two hour amnesty notice for cars parked on double yellow lines in and around Bury Park. Local residents complained but to no avail. It was only when the emergency services were unable to gain access down Westbourne Road that the council was forced to withdraw their special mosque-goers' concession.

Opportunity But not for everyone

OPPORTUNITY is a careers' magazine for black and Asian students living in Britain. The full colour glossy grant-funded magazine gives an overview of the latest trends and developments in the black and Asian job market, plus a list of useful contacts for students seeking work.

Can you imagine New Labour providing funds for a magazine to help the career opportunities of ordinary white British students?

We expose a new shadow housing strategy in Stockton

THE logo for Stockton-on-Tees Council is 'Local services for local people'. The 'local' in both cases is underlined for emphasis.

Well Freedom can reveal that Stockton Labour Council, far from being concerned with local people, is now making a priority of the black and ethnic minority communities living in

Billingham, Stockton, Thornaby and Yarm. Stockton Council is to launch a 'shadow' Black and Ethnic Housing Strategy specifically designed to ensure the ethnic minorities, including refugees and asylum seekers, "receive the right housing and related services."

The aims and objectives of this shadow(y) strategy is to "deliver high standard quality housing to the people of black and minority ethnic communities." This will be done by "taking positive action to address disadvantage" which is politically-correct New Labour-speak for putting the needs of ethnic minorities before those of ordinary Britons.

An insider on Stockton Council, who informed Freedom of the shadow strategy, is outraged at the waste of public money:

"This council is short of resources, yet vital funds are being wasted on this project. Labour knows that it can only hang on to power on Tesside by courting the ethnic vote, and this is what this nonsense is all about."

Labour covers up a future face of Britain

WALSALL'S Labour Council was thrown into a state of panic last month, and all because of an art exhibition in the town.

The Walsall Gallery was showing artworks on the theme of 'Imagined cityscapes of western cities in 2006'. Pride of place in the display was 'The Witnesses of the Future', an artwork depicting the Houses of Parliament and Big Ben transformed into a Mosque-style building with minarets and domes.

"My boss almost had a seizure when he saw it", one Walsall Council employee told Freedom.

"He was burning the midnight oil to make sure the picture was pulled from the exhibition before the gallery opened."

"The council are facing a lot of problems because of local people's concerns about immigration and asylum seeking. To give the public a glimpse of what they fear might actually happen would be like throwing petrol on a fire."

Walsall Gallery removed the offending picture but left a blank space in the exhibition with a statement from the council in its place.

IT'S MADNESS!

HEARDED the one about the Turkish immigrant who battered and stabbed to death a Sunday school teacher and is now walking, free, around the streets of the English seaside town that was the scene of his crime?

Unfortunately, it's not a joke but just another example of Britain's ludicrous immigration laws.

In 1995 Hakan Yagiz murdered retired nurse Gill Montgomery at her home in Hastings in East Sussex and fled home to Turkey. After intense pressure from Sussex Police, he was arrested and tried for her murder there, where he was found guilty and sentenced to 36 years hard labour.

He served just one year of his sentence before being freed under an amnesty and headed straight back to Britain. Yagiz is now back in Hastings and working as a hairdresser, much to the dismay of Mrs Montgomery's family and Chief Superintendent Dick Barton, who led the inquiry into the murder.

"Clearly, we are surprised and disappointed that he's free, and back in Hastings," he said:

The Home Office declined to discuss the issue with Freedom. A spokesman said: "We cannot comment on individual immigration cases."

Rail Union forgives and forgets Beeching and privatisation

RMT echoes T&G call for members to campaign for Conservative candidates

JUST LAST month, bosses of the Transport and General Workers Union told members to campaign for Tory candidates in the May local council elections if they had the best chance of beating a BNP candidate.

In the latest issue of their monthly magazine, RMT News, in an article entitled 'Stop the BNP', the National Union of Rail, Maritime & Transport Workers Union tells its readers to "back one candidate from one of the mainstream parties in order to ensure victory over the BNP."

It's what the TUC calls a popular-front campaign and means that in Tory-held wards where the BNP is standing, not only do RMT and T&G bosses want Labour candidates to stand down, but they also want their members to campaign for the Conservative candidate.

Back in 1963 the Tories brought in Richard Beeching from ICI to 'streamline' the railways. Beeching didn't streamline the network, he destroyed it, closing 2,128 stations, scrapping 8,000 coaches and carriages, and axing 67,000 jobs.

Thirty years later the Tories sold off British Rail at a giveaway price, leaving the country with the sorry state of affairs that we have today. Many rail workers are stunned that their leaders are telling them to 'Vote Conservative' in preference to the British National Party.

The BNP's integrated transport system policy which encourages the removal of freight from our roads on to rail, would help breathe new life into the network and help secure jobs. The BNP believes that an expanding rail network is vital for Britain to relieve congestion on our roads and reduce car exhaust pollution levels. Rail transport is a necessary service that should be provided by the Government of our country and not something run for profit by private companies.

NIGHTMARE: The BNP will transfer freight from our roads on to rail

RMT rank and file will be ignoring the demands of their out-of-touch leadership, and will be supporting their BNP candidates at the polls in May.

Raj on Britain

The thoughts of Rajinder Singh

I WAS SHOCKED to read the news in the Sunday Telegraph of March 16, 2003 that "schools across Britain have been ordered by local authorities to abandon the ancient tradition of serving hot cross buns at Easter, so as not to offend children of non-Christian faiths."

The report goes on to say, "Some councils are refusing to hand out the traditional treats because they fear that the symbol of the cross will spark complaints from Jewish, Hindu, and Muslim pupils or their families."

Thank God (or shall I say, "Thank Allah," to be politically correct?) the newspaper does mention "Muslims". They are the most likely source of these complaints despite being the last of the three complaining communities listed in the report.

Wouldn't it have been wiser to keep the ancient British custom and then wait for the complaints, instead of abolishing it promptly in anticipation of "a lot of complaints".

I can assure everyone that Hindus love to see their children participating in this custom and Jews have been on these shores for centuries without ever complaining about it.

I think the time is fast approaching when Labour controlled councils across the land, fearing a lot of complaints from their Afghan, Iranian and Albanian residents, will ban the sale of pork in shops, women showing their ankles or walking in public without covering their heads.

Also there will be regular complaints over the absence of green from the Union Jack, and the presence of not just one, but THREE, crosses in the design of the offending flag!

With regard to the Sikh community of Great Britain, I can state categorically that far from being offended by this time-honoured British tradition, we look forward to and love our hot cross buns!

Moreover we respect and would defend the Union Jack - as British history records, we have done so in the past.

Rajinder Singh is on the BNP's Ethnic Liaison Committee

Even more ASYLUM LUNACY

TOWNS in the North West are bearing the brunt of the Government's asylum seeker dispersal programme.

In Manchester there are 2170 asylum seekers, in Bolton 1195, in Salford 1300, in Wigan 860, in Oldham 680, in Bury 625, in Rochdale 440, in Stockport 270, in Tameside 335 and in Trafford 175.

Two towns where asylum seeker dispersal has been suspended are Burnley and Blackburn where there are BNP representatives on the council.

THE Home Office has admitted that it has "no idea" how many asylum seekers there are in Milton Keynes - or even who is responsible for them.

Milton Keynes Council said that asylum seekers cost the town's taxpayers £1.1 million last year with £215 a week spent on supporting a family and £145 each week per single adult.

****

ONE hundred and fifty council houses in Swansea are being prepared to accept 6000 asylum seekers.

News of the Home Office's dispersal plan led to a protest by 100 residents in the Penllan area of the city.

A £100,000-a-year dedicated medical service for asylum seekers and refugees is being set up in Bristol. The scheme by the three primary care trusts which fund health care in the city, has been set up to provide a specialised 'first point of contact' for asylum seekers.

The trusts estimate that there are about 1,500 refugees and asylum seekers in the city at any one time who would be served by the new scheme.

****

A REPORT from Dr Keith Williams, Coventry's director of public health, reveals that an influx of asylum seekers and students to the city has led to a rise in confirmed cases of the HIV infection.

Dr Williams said:

"Most of the cases in black Africans are seen in people who have come to Coventry relatively recently. The vast majority acquired the infection abroad."

****

THE Grade II listed St Mary's Convent on the Butts Estate, Brentford, in Middlesex had been earmarked to become a home for the elderly.

But now the council, without the knowledge of local residents, has scrapped the scheme in favour of a short-term transit hostel that will house over 50 refugees and asylum seekers.

****

TWO Iranian asylum seekers, Seyed Borbar and Mohamed Rad, were caught smuggling opium worth £37,000 into Britain.

Customs officers discovered the opium in searches at Heathrow and Glasgow Airports.

The two were jailed for four and a half years each and will serve their sentence in a British jail at the taxpayers' expense.

LABOUR TARGET: BNP politics student, Tony Wentworth (left), is being victimised at Salford University. A Dirty tricks campaign at Greenwich College (right) was exposed after a campus investigation.

Dirty tricks and Labour thugs

TONY WENTWORTH is a student at Salford University studying politics. He is also Chairman of the Young BNP which is why he has become the target of Labour activists who have launched a campaign to get him expelled.

They claim that other students, particularly those from overseas, feel threatened by his presence on campus and that is the sole basis of their argument.

Weighing 11 stone and 5ft 10ins tall, 21 year-old Tony Wentworth isn't a threat to anyone. He told Freedom:

"I am at Salford University to get an education. In this country we have a right to freedom of speech and political opinions. Labour's campaign is based on intimidation and the denial of basic freedoms."

At Greenwich University, Labour students perpetrated their own 'campaign of hate' which included covering toilet doors with anti-semitic stickers, and then blaming it on four BNP students.

However after an investigation, campus director, Paul Stigant, found that:

"There is absolutely no evidence of any such 'race-hate' campaign within the university."

One of the BNP students at Greenwich, Lawrence Rustem, told Freedom:

"It was a rather childish, but still very nasty trick to try and discredit us. Thankfully the investigation exposed it as just that. We are all too busy with our university work at the moment to respond to Labour's silly games."

Labour doesn't tolerate any opposition in Leicester

LABOUR councillors in Leicester were beside themselves with anger when Denise Pfeiffer presented a petition, signed by several hundred local residents, against their planned gay and lesbian extravaganza which was to be held in a public park in the city.

In fact, they were so outraged that their Mardi Gras in Abbey Park was being opposed that they taped Miss Pfeiffer's submission to a council meeting. They then sent the tape to her employers with a complaint that she was "exhibiting discriminatory behaviour" and should be sacked from her job.

The 27 year-old journalist was suspended from work for five months before being re-instated after an investigation found that she had no case to answer, and that the original complaint was 'malicious'. Denise, a committed Christian, was experiencing first hand the bullyboy tactics of Labour's 'gay' militants in the city. Last year, BNP candidate Clive Potter faced a similar disciplinary censure from his employers after writing a letter to an NHS journal expressing the Christian viewpoint with regard to homosexuality.

DENISE PFEIFFER: The target for Labour's bullyboys.

PLEASE SUPPORT OUR LEGAL FUND

THE BRITISH NATIONAL PARTY needs funds over and above our normal daily income to finance our Legal Department as it battles to uphold the democratic rights of the BNP in the British Courts.

The Party has begun a legal action with regard to the Stoke Mayoral Election where it is becoming increasingly evident that BNP candidate, Steve Batkin, was robbed of victory because of a corrupted electoral procedure.

The BNP is also challenging through the courts the unlawful persecution of some of our membership by a number of trade union leaders who are more interested in promoting their Marxist agenda rather looking after the interest of their members.

A team of dedicated solicitors and law students are working on behalf of the BNP to ensure that there are equal rights for all our election candidates and members.

British National Party WHERE WE STAND

CRIME: A crack-down on crime with more 'Bobbies on the Beat'. Tougher treatment of criminals, including the return of the death penalty for child killers and terrorists. Zero tolerance for drug-dealers and violent thugs.

IMMIGRATION: An end to immigration and the scandal of bogus asylum seekers flooding Britain. Use the billions now wasted in foreign aid to fund generous 'Homeward Bound' schemes to encourage immigrants to return to their land of ethnic origin.

INDUSTRY: British ownership and control of British industry and resources, including the mass media. Protection of British jobs and industry by selective exclusion of foreign manufactured goods from the British market.

HEALTH: We will use the vast sums of money now wasted on funding our membership of the EU for the restoration of an effective national health service and proactive measures to produce a healthier population in the first place.

EUROPEAN UNION: British withdrawal from the European Union. We will trade with Europe if it benefits Britain, but want no political ties or monetary union.

EDUCATION: A return to traditional methods of education, with stronger discipline in the classroom and an end to 'trendy' teaching methods which have failed our children so badly.

ENVIRONMENT: A healthy environment for a healthy people - the protection of our countryside; a ban on greenfield-site house building except in exceptional cases of genuine local need and an end to field trials of genetically modified crops.

FARMING & FISHING: The regeneration of British farming, with the objective of achieving the maximum self-sufficiency in food. The restoration of the fishing industry through protection of our traditional fishing grounds.

GOVERNMENT & COMMUNITY: The establishment of a government that puts British interests first. A return to healthy moral values and policies aimed at strengthening the family and community. Tough penalties for corruption in public life.

FREEDOM: A massive expansion of freedom and democracy to roll back the erosion of our traditional freedoms and truly reflect the wishes of the people. The adoption of popular referenda and high technology direct democracy.

DEFENCE: An alternative defence strategy based on the principle of armed neutrality. No British blood should be shed in conflicts which do not involve British interests. The restoration of the County Regiment system and the reversal of defence cuts which have weakened our Armed Forces and cost thousands of jobs.

REMEMBER! It doesn't matter if you don't agree with us on every last thing. Like all other democratic political parties, the BNP includes some members who disagree with one or two policies. Just ask yourself whether you agree with more of our policies than those of the other parties. Most people do, which is why we are the fastest growing political party in Britain today.

Join the Trafalgar Club

TRAFALGAR CLUB members make a real difference to the British National Party.

They pledge a minimum of £15 a month, in return for which they are entered into a prize draw every month, receive occasional special internal bulletins, and are entitled to attend the annual club dinner free of charge.

In addition every fully paid up first year member receives a TRAFALGAR CLUB tie (or personalised organiser file in the case of ladies). The tie carries the first two 'words' of Nelson's semaphore signal before the Battle of Trafalgar - "England Expects". Second year members receive a fine enamel badge and third year members a specially-designed umbrella.

The TRAFALGAR CLUB is always seeking new members. Please telephone 0870 75 76 267 to join and receive your payment card.

Keep our taxes low

ABNP administration will pledge to maintain domestic and business council taxes at the current level. It will only raise taxes where needed in keeping with yearly inflation.

- Where councillors have voted themselves a pay rise within the last four years, we will vote to scrap it. Councillors' pay must be performance related.
- BNP councillors will refuse to implement the Government's proposed Entertainment Act tax on public entertainment, parties and religious services.

Save our town centres

BNP COUNCILLORS will oppose the out-of-town supermarket developments which are killing off so many independent businesses and town centres.

- Where out-of-town supermarkets already exist, BNP councillors will campaign for extra local taxation of their facilities, including car parking space, and will plough the money raised into town centre projects.

• BNP town centre regeneration policy will encourage a mix of retail, service, light industrial and residential development.

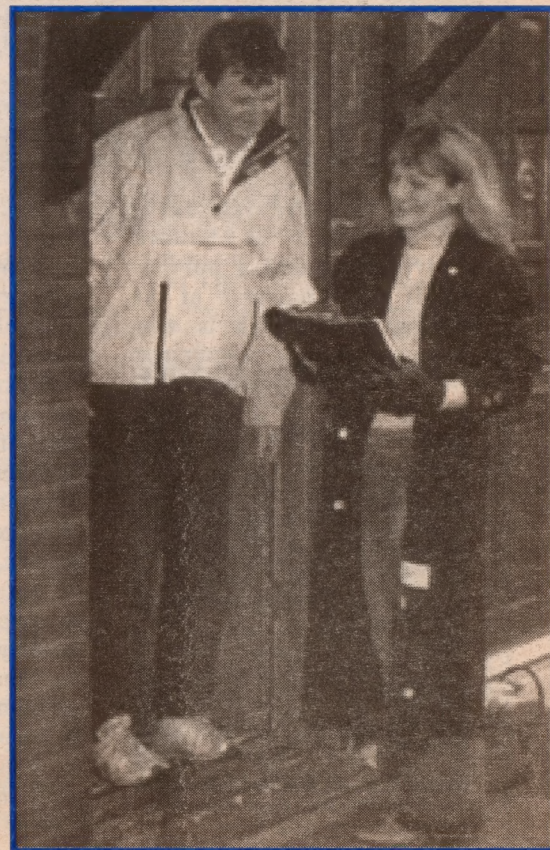

- The re-use of central brown field sites for new residential developments will take the pressure off the green belt. Moreover, increasing the residential population of central areas will help to keep shops in business and to reduce the crime and vandalism which are encouraged when there is no local community to keep an eye on things.

Shrink council bureaucracy

THE PAY rates of top council executives are obscene and totally unjustified, with council standards slipping as fast as the bosses' wages have risen. Pay for non-elected council executives must be performance related, which on the present showing of many will mean a cut!

- Council services - at present run from centralised office blocks - will be de-centralised to staff accommodated in small offices at ward level, amongst the people they are paid to serve.

- A truly flexible approach to staffing will be adopted so that services can be made available outside historic "office hours." Staff will be accessible to answer the community's concerns at weekends and evenings. We will examine the option of home working for administrative office staff.

Root out corruption

THE BNP will introduce an internal anti-corruption squad, which will comb through records of council dealings to uncover and root out corruption by councillors and council officials.

- Any council employee found guilty of corruption must be sacked and stripped of their office and pension.

- The BNP will ensure that the Nolan Commission and the Standards for the Conducting of Public Life are tightened and fully implemented.

Ensure equality for all

WE WILL abolish all council spending on politically correct projects designed to favour minorities.

- We will carry out a full audit into inequalities in spending on different areas over the last ten years, and where this uncovers spending bias against the majority community we will change spending patterns until the bias has been put right.

Make transport work

IN THE case of city councils with responsibility for local transport policy, BNP councillors will press for pilot schemes involving ultra-low pollution hydrogen buses, and for a feasibility study on the implementation of the University of Bristol's Urban Light Transport proposals.

●The families of thugs convicted of violence or vandalism on public transport in the area should face eviction. There is little possibility of encouraging more people to use public transport unless the public are convinced that it is safe to do so.

●There is a growing body of scientific evidence that speed cameras encourage erratic driving and cause accidents. BNP councillors will oppose the use of speed traps as an extra tax on motorists.

Clamp down on asylum

ALTHOUGH THE dumping of asylum seekers on our communities is fundamentally the fault of the Government, BNP councillors will do everything in their power to prevent asylum seekers being housed in our areas.

●The BNP will end the scandal of council properties which are deemed substandard being left empty while our own people are homeless, only to have thousands spent on them to provide top grade accommodation for asylum seekers.

No charge for waste disposal

GOVERNMENT plans to force local councils to charge householders to dispose of their rubbish will lead to an explosion of fly-tipping, squalor and disease risks.

●BNP councillors are pledged to fight to maintain free rubbish collections, which will be far cheaper than the massive clean-up costs that will result from charged collections.

Zero tolerance for criminals

THE FAMILIES of estate-wreckers and hard drug dealers must be evicted from estates or fined if they are in private accommodation.

●The council should use the courts to force private landlords to evict such anti-social elements under tenancy restrictions on the use of property for immoral or illegal purposes.

●A mixture of properly equipped volunteers and council direct labour must be given the power and the resources to deal rapidly with the cases of vandalism, neglect, fly-tipping, graffiti and the dumping of wrecked cars which can create a spiral of decline in any area.

End 'trendy' education

WE WOULD end all recruitment of teachers from Teacher Training Colleges where discipline is disparaged and traditional teaching methods are not taught exclusively.

●Instead BNP-controlled Education Authorities will take on retired teachers with at least 30 years experience and get them to train new teachers 'hands-on', in the classroom.

●Schools will be made to concentrate on basic educational skills, including mental arithmetic and the teaching of reading by phonics rather than modernist guesswork.

●We will lead a grass-roots campaign to give teachers back the right to smack disruptive pupils and to challenge the dictates of the European Court.

●In the event of the abolition of Clause 28 nationally, BNP councillors will seek a local referendum asking parents for their backing for a local prohibition on the teaching of homosexuality as an alternative lifestyle choice.

Stop the sell-off of assets

THE PRACTICE of councillors financing excessive spending by selling off council assets such as school playing fields, must stop.

●The BNP will expose the scandal of £billions of council property being privatised for peanuts. BNP councillors will campaign to reverse this scam

●The BNP will actively encourage the establishment of Community Banks and larger Credit Unions in which the participants would have access to "Right to Buy" financial help and assistance.

Restore local democracy

WHEREVER THE powers of elected councillors have been usurped by Cabinet-style rule, BNP councillors will fight to restore local democracy.

●The undemocratic Cabinet system will be scrapped and councillors will be barred from voting to keep the public or the press out of meetings.

●The BNP will oppose New Labour's plan to break England up with Regional Assemblies, and will fight to preserve the powers of County Councils in order to keep local decision-making and democracy as close to ordinary voters as possible.

All the above points flow naturally from our position as practical, democratic nationalists. All other decisions will be taken by BNP councillors according to their own consciences and along lines dictated by commonsense, rather than party political dogma.

YOU can make Tony Blair listen!

IN NOVEMBER 2001, John Reid, the then Northern Ireland Secretary, interrupted a major speech on the Province to ask voters in a ward in the East Lancashire town of Burnley not to vote for the British National Party in a local council by-election!

The fact that Mr Reid was even aware of the contest taking place was a surprise, but the fact that he could use such an important occasion to appeal to just 4,000 out of our 40 million plus electorate was, at that time, almost beyond comprehension.

This was the first indication that the Government was wary of the BNP's electoral challenge and what it could mean to the fortunes of the Labour Party. Since then, of course, we now have the Prime Minister regularly taking time off from running (and ruining?) the country to give exclusive interviews to local newspapers where the BNP are contesting seats. His message is always the same: "Vote for any of the mainstream parties but not for the BNP".

When we contest elections, Tony Blair knows about it and focusses intently on the verdict of the voters. A BNP vote can prompt the Government into action. When the British National Party won seats in Burnley and Blackburn, the Home Office stopped sending asylum seekers to those areas almost immediately.

The BNP's big election push on Thursday 1st May is forcing Tony Blair's hand on asylum. He has already arranged televised deportations of asylum seekers to be screened in the run-up to polling day in a desperate attempt to stop people voting for the British National Party and to shore up the crumbling Labour vote.

These scenes at the airport will be in the best tradition of Labour spin. The 12,000 Afghans in question have actually agreed to return home and could have already been despatched back to Kabul if the Government had had the inclination. But that wouldn't win New Labour any votes would it? Evening news bulletins, on the other hand, showing mass deportations day after day at the end of April might just convince wavering voters that Labour is at last tackling the asylum crisis.

The fact that a government with such a huge majority feels so vulnerable from the BNP is something that voters must use in their own interests and the interests of Britain.

Tony Blair doesn't listen to the people. He clearly demonstrated that with his total disregard for public opinion over the war in Iraq. Before the BNP became an electoral force, Tony Blair totally ignored people's concern over our bludgeoning asylum crisis. It was only when the BNP started winning seats that the Government started taking note.

If you feel anger and frustration because the Government is ignoring your worries and concerns, you can do something about it on May 1st. You CAN make Tony Blair and New Labour LISTEN, by casting your vote for the British National Party.

The insidious pressures being placed on small businesses

MY SON runs a small factory manufacturing steel products in Cleveland.

He tendered for a contract, only to receive an enquiry from the company concerned asking how many people from the ethnic minorities did he employ. He replied that he only had 14 employees, all of whom were local people, but was then told by the company that he could not qualify to submit a tender for the contract.

My son explained to the company that he was not prejudiced and had, in the past, had ethnic minority workers but they had either left for another job or moved on. He was then told that he must provide proof that he had specifically advertised for ethnic minority staff before he would be considered.

We live in an economically deprived area and have to fight for every bit of business we can get in order to provide jobs for the local workforce. I think your readers should be made aware of the insidious pressures being placed upon small businesses to the detriment of the local economy.

This incident upset me so much that I went straight out and joined the BNP, the only party that seems to care about the British people.

Mrs C. Birbeck, Redcar.

Public services

AS A lifelong Labour voter, in recent years I have become disillusioned by our local and national representatives' complete infatuation with 'political correctness'.

Because of this, for the first time in my adult life, I have started looking for a political alternative. After reading your paper, Freedom, I think I might just have found it, you definitely seem to be speaking the same language as me. In my area our local authority is trying to close state-run homes for the elderly because of lack of funds from central government. Yet it is central government which is sending us refugees which place a strain on the public purse that our area cannot sustain. Please keep plugging away and the public will come around. We must put the true wealth of this country into public services which serve the British people.

Bill Weir, Accrington, Lancs.

Overburdened NHS

REPORTS regularly appear in the press about cash shortages and ward closure within our National Health Service.

I don't believe that the NHS is either under-funded or understaffed. It is just overburdened. The service was intended to look after the needs of the British people: our own folk who had paid a lifetime of national insurance to fund the care that they required. Every single year since 1970, the NHS has had to look after the needs of up to an additional 100,000 new arrivals to our country. These people avail themselves of our social services, yet have never paid a penny in NI contributions.

No wonder our NHS is creaking under the weight being placed upon it.

N.G. Charnley, Blackpool.

Referendum call

YOUR correspondent, George Avery, (Referendum is Vital) was absolutely right to call for a referendum on the profound and irrevocable change to our Constitution that would occur if we have the misfortune to be placed under the planned European Constitution.

But how can we secure a referendum?

Labour, with its huge majority, can vote the European Constitution through the Commons next year, and even if the Lords vote against, it will only be delayed for a year.

There is only one person who can realistically stop the EU Constitution and grant us a referendum - the Queen. She has the rarely-used power to withhold the Royal Assent from any Bill. Whilst by convention she must normally follow her Ministers' advice, this does not include following it when it means breaking our existing Constitution. A group of us have formed the Campaign for a Referendum on the European Constitution (CREC). Our main activity has been to produce tens of thousands of individually-numbered postcards, calling on the Queen to refuse the Royal Assent to any Bill to implement the European Constitution.

On the front of the card is a brightly-coloured message: 'No European Constitution. Without a Referendum'.

The Queen is obliged to forward on each card received to the Foreign Secretary asking him to explain why the government is at present refusing a referendum.

T. Bennett MA, Harlow, Essex.

Housing points

WHEN I applied for accommodation with my local council I was told that, as a single person with no dependants, I did not score a sufficient number of points to be allocated accommodation.

How is it then that asylum seekers, many of them male and single, have been allocated accommodation by local councils even when they have been refused asylum or permission to stay and are awaiting the outcome of appeals?

My parents and grandparents paid income tax and national insurance contributions all their working lives to ensure that their children and grandchildren could benefit from a welfare state that would provide adequate housing, a National Health Service and social benefits in times of need.

I too have paid my taxes and contributions into the collective pot for the same reasons.

Why are asylum seekers - the majority of whom are simply economic migrants - who have made no contribution to our society, given priority over the rights of ordinary British citizens?

Joan Lawson, Bristol.

Place in History

IT IS quite obvious that Tony Blair yearns to make his place in history as a war leader.

He has already bombed one bunch of extremists, the Serbs, into submission to allow another bunch, the KLA, to take over. He gave little or no thought to the mayhem that is left for the civilian population to face when the bombing stops.

Blair believes his priority lies with giving Iraq a 'thick ear' from the safety of Downing Street, while the country he is supposed to officiate over comes to a standstill and continues to disintegrate.

Mr. D. Jamson, Manchester.

BNP farmer defies the union bullyboys

PETER CHANTLER, the BNP candidate for North Molton, in Devon, faced a vitriolic attack in the North Devon Journal on March 6th from 19 local union leaders opposed to him standing for election.

Far from being intimidated by this gang throwing their collective weight about, Peter, a local farmer, responded with a forthright defence of traditional values and the British way of life.

In the same paper on March 13th Peter replied.

PETER CHANTLER: Will be visiting every household and speaking in every village hall during his campaign.

THE hysterical, nineteen signature letter filled with childish name-calling from the unions concerning my candidacy in the North Molton ward in the May local elections brings a favourite phrase instantly and powerfully to mind...

'My name is Legion, for we are many.' I refer to the tale of the Gadarene Swine in Mark 5:9. How they squeal when faced with a challenge to their tyranny over the body-politic of political correctness and multi-culturalism! I say to them plainly - stay out of local politics in North Molton. That is a matter for myself, other local contenders and my electors. Put up or shut up. If you want to argue against me, put up your own candidate and take part in the democratic process.

I will be delivering to every household in the ward a statement of BNP policies with my own election address, and I will be speaking in every village hall fearlessly and openly during my campaign. It is for the electors to decide.

In view of what this unprecedented outside interest in this election intimates, I will be seeking the full assurance of the police in South Molton that any outside interference of any sort whatsoever in these elections will not be tolerated.

That is my warning to the union bully-boys who have sought to intimidate me and my electors by signing one letter with 19 signatures. My arguments are strong enough to speak for themselves with one signature alone. We will not tolerate the union rent-a-mob in our ward. I'm not impressed at all and nor are my electors.

The political ideology expressed in their letter was totally alien to the people of North Devon, the West Country, and increasingly, to people up and down the country. It read to me like a foreign language, what with phobic this and -ist that.

My mother's family comes from Devon from as far back as the 14th Century. This is where my roots are. I am part of this community and all my assets are invested in the soil of North Molton. My vision of what's best for North Molton is far better informed than is the multi-cultural, amoral nightmare which Legion would impose on my electors.

The BNP is shouting out loudly and implacably "The Emperor has no clothes," and Legion doesn't like it. That's why we're winning elections.

His ideology is based on a fiction of the "celebration" of multi-culturalism and the destruction of traditional values. There would be no rejoicing here on those accounts, simply deep mourning at the loss of our wonderful, cohesive, peaceful, unified English communities. I will not see that happen. That is why I am standing for office.

Peter Chantler, South Molton.

"I am part of this community and all my assets are invested in the soil of North Molton. My vision of what's best for North Molton is far better informed than is the multi-cultural, amoral nightmare which Legion would impose on my electors."

Bookburners stoke the fire for Three Little Pigs

A West Yorkshire head teacher has banned books containing stories about pigs from the classroom in case they offend Muslim children.

The literature has been removed from classes for under-sevens at Park Road Junior Infant and Nursery School in Batley. 60% of the school's pupils are of Pakistani or Indian origin and all of these pupils are Muslims.

Head teacher Mrs Barbara Harris issued a statement saying:

"Recently I have been aware of an occasion where young Muslim children in class were read stories about pigs.

"We try to be sensitive to the fact that for Muslims talk of pigs is offensive."

The head teacher sent a memo to staff saying fiction books containing stories about pigs should be removed from Early Years and Key Stage One classrooms.

New Labour's relentless attack on rural Britain

WEST COUNTRY cider makers are up in arms over proposals which could bring an end to the sale of cider at country fairs and farmers' markets.

The legislation, currently before Parliament, will effectively tie small producers up in so much "red-tape" and crippling expense that they will be unable to trade, thereby driving yet another New Labour nail into the coffin of our rural economy.

Politically motivated busybodies want to switch responsibility for licensing from the courts to local authorities. They want a licensing system which is more complicated and more expensive than that currently in force. In other words they are planning to legislate small scale cider producers and traders out of existence through the introduction of new stealth taxes. Under the current system, many cider makers hold "dormant" on-licences which then allow them to apply for occasional licences to sell at shows, fairs and markets. Others hold off-licences and get pub landlords to apply for temporary licences to sell at markets - in summary, a single licence is required.

NO CIDER: Country fairs will be hit badly by new licensing laws.

Now consider the new proposals. The owner of the land, where the fair or market is being held, will need a licence at a basic cost of £100 a year! Cider producers and traders will have to have one as well! As will the market and fair organiser! That's three licences, all cynically screwing money from small-time traders!

But New Labour's extortion doesn't end there!

In addition to the compulsory licence fee, our money-grabbing friends in Westminster insist that potential licence holders will have to undergo a compulsory training course and have to pass an examination on licensing law and "social responsibility".

The cost of the "training", administration and examination will, of course, not be cheap and will have to be met from the cider producers' pockets.

None of this comes as any surprise to regular readers of Freedom - it's just another example of New Labour's relentless attack on rural Britain.

Former Tory organises the BNP in Salisbury

THE British National Party's appeal to the farming and fishing communities in the West Country, by taking an uncompromising stance against the European Union, has been reaping rewards in the last few months.

Peter Hunter, a former member of the Conservative Party, is now organising for the BNP in the Salisbury area.

He told the Financial Times:

"I think there is going to be an increasing backlash against asylum seekers as a Labour government tries to house them in Conservative areas."

Local residents in Yeovil, in Somerset, have asked the BNP for help in their campaign to oppose plans to build a mosque in the town.

Ex-UKIP leads BNP campaign in Bristol

A FORMER member of the UK Independence Party is leading the BNP's election campaign in Bristol.

Diane Carr is contesting Stockwood Ward and joins Clive Courtney (Bedminster), David Millard (Bishopsworth), and John Jarvis (Brislington East) in giving voters in the city their first chance for many years to vote for a BNP candidate.

DIANE CARR: Stockwood Ward.

BNP Chairman signs up to the Oldham campaign

THE ROOF was raised at the monthly meeting of Oldham BNP on Sunday 23rd March when it was announced that Nick Griffin would be standing in Chadderton North at the local council elections in May.

The Chairman of the British

National Party was honouring a pledge he made to the electorate of Oldham after the 2001 General Election, when he received over 16% of the vote, that he would one day stand for election as a councillor in Oldham.

Nick and Oldham Organiser, Mick Treacy, will be leading 12 BNP candidates into the election, that's seven more than contested the 2002 election when the BNP campaign in Oldham grabbed all the national headlines.

Three new BNP candidates stepped forward at the meeting and explained exactly why they decided the time had now come to stand up and be counted - the message from all three was that the only way we can save our country is by giving our support to the British National Party.

The Oldham list of candidates:

Mick Treacy (Hollinwood), Nick Griffin (Chadderton N), Joe Fletcher (Chadderton Cen.), Stewart Fullard (Chadderton S), Norman Corbett (Royton North), Charles Style (Failsworth West), Craig Lawton (Lees), Alwyn Stott (Shaw), Roy Goodwin (St James), Martin Brierley (Waterhead), Tony Wentworth (Alexandra) A.N. Other (St Paul's).

Carrying on his family's political tradition in Calne

ROBERT BAGGS: Positive reaction from Calne voters.

ROBERT Baggs, the BNP's candidate for Calne in Wiltshire, is the nephew of a former mayor of the town, Mercy Baggs.

The father-of-four, who was born and bred in Calne, believes he can poll very well in May, with apathetic voters seeing the BNP as a viable political alternative.

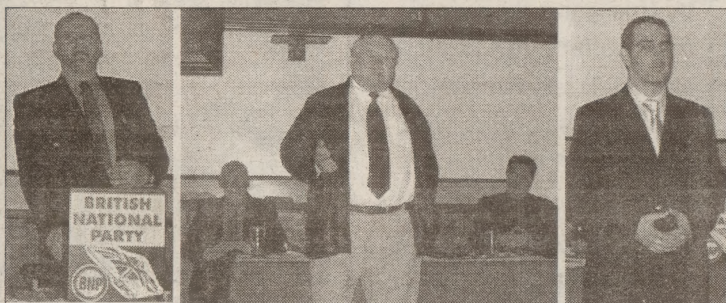

Mr Baggs said the public reaction in the town since he announced his intention to stand in Abberd Ward has been very positive. He said people have approached him in the street and clapped him on the back for taking his stand.

"People know me. They know I'm not a racist, that I'm an ordinary person and I have the best interests of the town in mind," Robert told Freedom.

He said he will be campaigning on the BNP's policies on crime, agriculture and political correctness, which gives the party a broader appeal in rural areas where immigration is not such a key issue.

Mercy Baggs, who is a North Wiltshire district councillor and a town councillor, told the local paper:

"I support Robert's right to stand as a candidate. People must make up their own minds about his politics."

Craig Lawton (Lees), Alwyn Stott (Shaw) and Martin Brierley (Waterhead).

At last a voice for Britons in Pendle

The British people of Pendle in Lancashire will for the first time be able to make their voice heard thanks to three BNP candidates standing for election to the local council in May.

Trevor Dawson, a 38-year-old graduate of the University of Lancashire, where he gained an honours degree in History and Politics, is standing in Clover Hill.

He believes that local people have been let down badly by Labour and Lib-Dem councillors who have allowed the area change beyond recognition in recent years.

Brian Parker was born in Nelson and has lived in Pendle all his life, apart from three years service overseas with the armed forces. Standing in Vivary Bridge, Brian is campaigning against the closure of Pendle's care homes and pledges to do his utmost to ensure that local old folk get the standard of service they deserve.

Michael Brennan is standing in Barrowford. He is a 40-year-old, self-employed joiner, specialising in care and conservation. He joined the British National Party two years ago after becoming totally disillusioned by the choice on offer from the mainstream parties.

PENDLE CANDIDATES: Brian Parker, Michael Brennan and Trevor Dawson

BNP contest Barkingside by-election

JULIAN Leppert is the BNP's candidate for the Barkingside by-election which is to be held on Thursday April 10th.

36-year-old Julian is a new member of the party with a special interest in transport policy. He is a vegetarian and active animal welfare campaigner.

Barkingside ward, which is in the London Borough of Redbridge, actually covers the northern half of Gants Hill and has a large ethnic minority population, making up as much as 30% of the electorate.

There is also a Jewish community in the ward and initial canvassing returns indicate that they, like the indigenous community, are very concerned over the number of economic migrants moving into the area.

Julian spoke at a meeting of Redbridge BNP on Thursday March 20th to launch his campaign. The meeting was chaired by Danny Warville and guest speakers included BNP London Organiser, Chris Roberts, Waltham Forest Organiser, Frank Forte, and Redbridge Organiser, Jason Douglas.

Full house for the BNP in Clitheroe

THE British National Party will be contesting all five Clitheroe seats for the Ribbles Valley Council elections in May.

At the beginning of March, the party announced its fifth and final candidate for St Mary's ward. He is 27-year-old window-fitter, Paul Frankland, who was born and bred in the town.

He joins four other BNP candidates adopted earlier in the year. They are Shannon Gath, a 34 year-old self-employed caterer, who will contest Salthill ward, 36 year-old father-of-three Brian Ferguson, a self-employed painter and decorator, who will stand in Littlemoor ward; 40 year-old machine operator, Ivan Duxbury, who will stand against Clitheroe Mayor, Coun. Mary Robinson, in Primrose ward, and Peter McQuade, a 35 year-old council worker, who will contest Low Moor and Henthorn.

BNP Lancashire spokesman, Simon Bennett, told Freedom:

"We have reached our target of fielding a candidate in each of the five Clitheroe wards and are very pleased with the support we have received in the town."

More BNP than Lib-Dems in Darlington

NEARLY 50 British National Party candidates will be taking their message to electors in the North-East of England on May 1st - and that's more than in any other region in the country.

Even two wards in Tony Blair's constituency of Sedgefield are being fought for the first time. In this rotten borough, where Labour councillors have been returned without being opposed time and time again, voters will at last get the chance to vote for candidates who really care about local people. In Darlington, the BNP are putting up more candidates than the Liberal Democrats.

In Sunderland, the party is fielding 20 candidates. These brave men and women will be supported with a campaign run from a local shop which has been rented to the BNP in the run-up to polling day. BNP chairman Nick Griffin addressed a local election rally attended by over 150 party workers and supporters to launch the campaign.

●PETER Appleby is the BNP's candidate on the Glasgow List for the Scottish Parliament. The BNP will also have a candidate standing for the South-East Region of the Welsh Assembly.

Message from the Westminster Private Members' club

"Vote for any party - but NOT the BNP"

WITHIN JUST a few short months of the last General Election, New Labour MPs, aided and abetted by the Tories and Lib-Dems, voted themselves a £4,000 per year pay rise and a 20% increase in the value of their pension schemes.

It's now a very lucrative business being a Member of Parliament with an average back-bencher netting a cool £165,384 each year in salaries and expenses.

The majority of MP's today follow the same line whichever party they support. New Labour's huge parliamentary majority is often bolstered by the Tories and Lib-Dems, leaving those few conscientious MP's totally ineffectual.

At present Westminster is more like a private Members' Club rather than a seat of Government, with no one stepping out of line and whatever the Cabinet desires being pushed through 'on the nod'.

This is why Tony Blair, John Prescott and every single member of the Government keeps telling the voters: 'If you can't support New Labour then please vote for one of the other mainstream parties!'

Labour, Tories and Lib-Dems are all in the trough together and that is why they are so frightened of the BNP.

The Secret Fishing Betrayal

HAVE YOU EVER wondered what is behind Tony Blair's active encouragement of the destruction of the British Fishing Industry?

Mr. Blair and his New Labour government have just signed up to the worst ever vote in British fishing history, agreeing to slash and slash the North Sea by 40%. Catches of haddock and whiting in the same waters will be cut by around 50%.

The cuts will destroy the fishing communities, particularly in the north-east of Scotland. British fishermen will now only be given one month to make a living from their boats.

New Labour betrays our poultry producers
(It's a secret for Scotland but not for Britain)
Poultry farming has been made the mainstay of the Scottish economy. It's the only industry that has been able to survive the economic crisis. It's the only industry that has been able to provide a steady supply of food for the Scottish people. It's the only industry that has been able to provide a steady supply of food for the Scottish people.
